CASTLE RUSHEN

Welcome to the group visitor information for Castle Rushen. Here you will find everything you need to plan a visit.

One of the best preserved medieval castles in Europe can be found in the heart of Castletown, the Isle of Man's ancient capital. Castle Rushen was the former seat of the Kings and Lords of Mann, with the Castle's oldest part dating back to the time of Magnus, last Norse King of Mann. Later on, Castle Rushen served as an administrative centre, a mint, a law court and for over 100 years until the late 19th century, as a prison. Today, spectacular displays illustrate the Castle at various times in history with figures in period costume, historical furnishings and wall hangings, realistic food, contemporary music and medieval speech bringing the Castle's medieval and 17th century periods to life.

Don't miss:

- The murder holes in the Inner Gatehouse
- Bishop Wilson in his cell
- The castle guards in their vaulted rooms
- Panoramic views of Castletown from the ramparts
- Gatehouse with en-suite 'garderobe'
- Lord Stanley in the Presence Chamber

Timing your visit

A typical visit lasts 1½ hours. We recommend that a visit to Castle Rushen is timed to coincide with other attractions within walking distance in Castletown:

- The Nautical Museum, where you can discover the story of the late Captain George Quayle, his eccentric boathouse and his most significant surviving creation the Peggy. The Peggy has temporarily been removed to a specialist building for a long-term programme of stabilisation, conservation and study
- The Old House of Keys, former home of the Manx Parliament
- The Old Grammar School where rows of benches and desks are a reminder of early Victorian school days. This site can be opened for pre-booked groups by special request.

A visit to Castle Rushen can also be combined with a trip to Rushen Abbey in neighbouring Ballasalla.
