

Did you know?
This toy cat was made by a young German boy in
'handicraft'
class

During World War Two, many Germans and Italians, often whole families, were sent to internment camps on the Isle of Man.

Interned prisoners of war would spend much of their time making things to while away the time.

This cat
has no tail,
so took less
time to make!

What toy animal
would you make?
